Datastore’s leadership team and service specialists bring years of experience and best practices to each Datastore customer engagement. All personnel undergo security background checks and drug-screening – and are trained on HIPAA, GLB, and SOX – to ensure security, integrity and service standards.

With governance and compliance regulations in the forefront of today’s business environment, adherence to legislation such as HIPAA, SOX, GLB and FACTA places a greater burden on you and your organization to protect the confidentiality of your company’s vital information. This includes any form of critical business data ranging from paper documents to computer hardware and backup media, as well as seemingly minor employee notes regarding official company business.

Proper and timely disposal of your company’s vital information is crucial to the overall management of your business records. Adhering to retention policies and practicing prudent destruction can prevent exposure of your critical information and protect your company from potential breaches or costly litigation.

Datastore provides vital information destruction services that are “AAA” certified by the National Association of Information Destruction (NAID). This is the highest rating in the secure destruction industry and assures you of proper handling and disposal of your confidential information.

According to NAID; “In a survey conducted by the Conference Board, top executives from 300 companies ranked the security of company records as one of the top five critical issues facing business. When asked which issues required immediate attention and policy development, the security of company records ranked second only to employee health screening.”
